PREMISES

- The ground floor area of the Arena will be divided into sectors according to the faculties.
- Volunteers will meet you at the entrance of your faculty's sector; because the entire sector is divided into groups, volunteers will inform you of your seat. You have to sit in the seats of your group.
- A detailed ground floor area seating plan will be published at <https://graduation-ceremony.ktu.edu> a few days before the graduation ceremony.

EVENT

- Event's dress code is semi-formal. The graduates, who do not have gowns, but would like to acquire them, have to contact the representatives of their faculty or the elder of their group.
- The event will begin with a festive procession; you have to stand up during the procession; "Gaudeamus" anthem will be sung right after it. There is no applause after the hymn.
- There will be 3-4 volunteers at each sector; they, together with a representative of the faculty, will make sure a certain group is invited to come to the stage on time. Each person, who sees his/her name on the LED screen is invited to receive a diploma.
- After receiving your diploma and going off the stage to the table near the stage, you will need to sign the diploma registration book and return to your seat.
- Photographers will be next to the stage; they will capture a moment of each graduate's diploma award.

- The live stream of the Graduation Ceremony will be available at <https://graduation-ceremony.ktu.edu>.
- During the diploma award the graduates are not allowed to leave the ground floor area. Relatives and guests will not be allowed in the ground floor area.
- A large photo backdrop will be set up in the ground floor area, where professional photographers will capture graduates throughout the event. Following each faculty's diploma award ceremony, graduate groups will be invited to take group photos with their classmates, study programme, or faculty, as well as to capture the symbolic moment of tossing their graduation caps into the air.
- After the event, the graduates and their relatives can take photographs at the photo-walls at the main entrance of Kaunas Žalgiris Arena.
